“The grill is hot,
our drive-thru window
is open, and we’re ready to serve Dad’s amazing food,”
said Randi, “but...”

“Where are all the customers?”
asked her little brother, Ralph.

Randi and Ralph Rumbles
and their parents, Margo and Melvin, had just moved to Honeysuckle Hollow.

They were excited about
opening their Li'l Nibbles Diner—and making
new friends.

But the diner had been open for days—and if they didn’t get any customers, the Rumbles would have to return to the city.

“At our city diner,” said Dad, “passersby smelled our burgers, and stopped to read our street menu...”

“They peeked through the window at the food our customers were eating...”

So why wasn't anyone coming to the Rumbles's new drive-thru diner?

The Rumbles gazed around and suddenly...

“I know!”
said Randi. “No one knows our new diner is here!”

“Exactly!
We need to spreeeead
the word,” said Mom,
“and fast!”

“But we don’t know anyone in Honeysuckle Hollow,”
said Randi.

“Who will help us?”

“Whoooo? Did you say
whoooo?” hooted a voice
...and down swooped
Pete Whooswhoo.

“My friends and I can help you. That’s whoooo!”
he said.

“Hurray!” cheered
the Rumbles family.

The excited kids
shared ideas, and soon
Pete flew off with secret
“air mail” messages
for his pals.

The very next day,
Ralph, Randi, Pete,
and Pete's pals began
to get the word out!

Soon, all the folks
in Honeysuckle Hollow
were abuzz.

“Heard about the new diner?”

“How exciting!”

“Yum! I’m going tomorrow!”

“Me too!”

Sure enough, next morning,
the grill was hot
with sizzling burgers,
the drive-thru window
was open with a lineup
of cars, and cheerful
customers were served food
with a smile.

“We’re so happy!”
said Randi to Pete and all
her other new friends.
“Thanks for your help!”

“Looks like Li’l Nibbles Diner
is here in Honeysuckle Hollow
to stay!” cheered Ralph.
